

Rone likes to work large and work fast: He completed the mural in two days, Dec. 8-9. The mural is No. 13 in the Downtown Hollywood Mural Project, and is set to be followed in March by a work on a Tyler Street parking garage from Miami's TM Sisters.

The Downtown Hollywood ArtWalk takes place 7-10 p.m. on the third Saturday of the month. Parking is free in three-hour increments between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Parking costs $1 an hour at the 20th Avenue Municipal Garage (between Harrison and Van Buren streets) and the 19th Avenue Municipal Garage (between Tyler and Polk). Gifty craftiness Procrastinators unite! Indie Craft Bazaar will offer a wide selection of crafty giftiness from local artists, designers and entrepreneurs at its A Very Merry Stitches gathering from noon to 6 p.m. Saturday inside Revolution Live (100 SW Third Ave., Fort Lauderdale). You'll find vegan treats, $3 mimosas (and other drink specials), free holiday gift-wrapping, a DIY ornament booth and music from the Bows and Ties. First 100 people in the door will get a free bag of swag. Admission: $5. Free parking and trolley from Sears Town. Info: Facebook.com/IndieCraftBazaar.

Raggy sweater

West Palm Beach indie rockers Raggy Monster on Saturday will perform songs from the just-released album "As the Thorn Lures the Widow's Lip, It Seeks No Wisdom From the Wicker Flies" at Respectable Street (518 Clematis St, West Palm Beach), where they'll be joined by fellow WPB act Lavola, playing stuff from "This Book Is My Cowardice," just out on vinyl. There is a dress code: If you are looking for one more place to wear that ugly sweater, Va Va Voom Photos is sponsoring contests in categories including most original, all-around ugliest and best matched couple. Of course, there will be a picture booth (get your digital download on Sunday). Info: Facebook.com/RaggyMonster, Facebook.com/IAMLavola.

Green dogs

West Palm Beach's waterfront GreenMarket (100 Clematis St.), already well known for its pet-friendly vibe, on Saturday will have a dedicated area called the Subaru Dog Park, a collaboration of the Peggy Adams Animal Rescue League, the ASPCA and Schumacher Subaru. The dog park will be available for free from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. No dog? The Peggy Adams group will be there with plenty of four-legged ways to fix that. Info: PeggyAdams.org.

All aboard

Polar Express night at Mizner Park Amphitheatre, which has become one of the season's most popular traditions, will return Saturday night starting at 5:30, with free family activities in the "snow" including train rides and a pajama-party screening of "Polar Express." Hot chocolate, popcorn and pizza will be available for purchase. Info: 561-393-7807, MyBoca.us.

Home for the holidays

My daughter has promised to keep her hands to herself, but how often do you get to see a life-size gingerbread house that is, yes, edible? The 10-foot-tall, 10-foot-square treat is the centerpiece of a free holiday party 1-4 p.m. Saturday at the Diplomat Resort and Spa (3555 S. Ocean Drive). A creation of the resort's pastry chef, Henry Martignago, the house includes 600 gingerbread bricks, 1,000 gingerbread shingles, chocolate-painted shutters, 200 pounds of icing and an explosion of gumdrops. The party includes music and complimentary holiday treats. Admission and parking are free. Info: DiplomatResort.com.

Go to Townes

Justin Townes Earle on Jan. 13 will release the album "Absent Fathers," the companion to his fall LP, "Single Mothers," which made 2014 best-of lists put out by Rolling Stone, Paste and American Songwriter. The son of Steve will begin a tour for the album in Florida of all places on Feb. 16. Alas, it's in Tampa, followed the next night by a show at the Phillips Arena in Orlando, and then he heads up the East Coast. Frustrating. Info: JustinTownesEarle.com.

Happy hula-days

The Mai-Kai Restaurant, a spry 58, will celebrate its advancing middle age with a customer-appreciation party on Dec. 28 beginning at 5 p.m., when you'll get 58 percent off your check in its legendary Molokai Bar. Info: 954-563-3272, Maikai.com.
