Weekend run

You will not have a more rewarding (or poignant) outing this weekend than the 2016 Tunnel to Towers 5K Run and Walk in downtown Fort Lauderdale on Saturday morning. This 15th annual fundraiser for the nonprofit Stephen Siller Tunnel to Towers Foundation will include waves of local firefighters (and other first responders) who run in turnout gear as a salute to Siller. On 9/11, the young firefighter and father ran nearly 2 miles through the Brooklyn-Battery Tunnel, 75 pounds of gear strapped to his back, before being picked up on the other side and taken to the World Trade Center, where he disappeared. The run begins at 7:30 a.m. at Huizenga Plaza, Las Olas Boulevard and Andrews Avenue. Advance registration is $30, ages 15-17 $15. Race-day entry costs an extra $5. Info: Tunnel2Towers.org.

Weekend DJ

As if he hasn't had enough going on as the drummer for the Roots and “The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon,” and co-producer of the “Hamilton” soundtrack, Questlove on Tuesday started “Questlove Supreme,” a weekly three-hour venue for his broad musical tastes on Pandora. He told Forbes magazine: “Pandora is really open, proactive and very interested in my vision for what a radio station could be. My DJ sets, I play Benny Goodman to Drake and all stops in between.” On Saturday at 11 p.m., Questlove will test the crowd with a DJ set at Basement Miami (2900 Collins Ave.) in Ian Schrager’s swank The Miami Beach EDITION. Tickets: $20 advance, $30 at the door. Info: BasementMiami.com.

Fins up

Got my Jarvis Landry jersey, know my Koa from Carroo and have finally learned how to pronounce Ndamukong (if not Ifo Ekpre-Olomu), just in time for Himmarshee Public House’s season-opening block party for the Miami Dolphins game against the Seattle Seahawks at 4:05 p.m. Sunday. The 16-foot LED TV will be in the street, as food and drink specials are hawked, giveaways are given and DJ Mark Gallo spins. The party starts at 1 p.m. Info: Facebook.com/PublicHouseFTL.

So nice

One of the best things about the Rio Olympics was the reacquaintance with the irresistible allure of the bossa nova. OK, maybe it’s just me. No, wait, it’s not. Downtown Boca’s Brazilian Beat is the name of a free Brazilian Independence

Day celebration at Mizner Park Amphitheater with the requisite food, cocktails, dancing and a concert by the dazzling Bebel Gilberto (hoping she does “So Nice”). The party, a co-production of the city and the Rhythm Foundation, begins at 6 p.m. Info: MiznerAmp.com, RhythmFoundation.com.

Got your swede?

You’ve got a few more weekends to work on your submission for the fifth annual Swede Fest Palm Beach, hosted by the Palm Beach Film Society on Oct. 15 at the Kelsey Theater in Lake Park. To jog your memory, the amateur film festival, which puts a spin on the comedy “Be Kind Rewind,” is a celebration of no-budget shorts, also known as swedes, that pay intentionally awkward homage to an iconic Hollywood film. Submissions must be under three minutes and no stronger than PG-13 (even if the source material, say, “Goodfellas,” is not). It’s free to enter a swede, and the deadline is Sept. 30. Tickets to Swede Fest Palm Beach, an irreverent evening of watching the best swedes complete with red carpet, are $12 in advance at TheKelseyTheater.com, $15 at the door and free for filmmakers. For information on swedes and how to enter yours, visit SwedeFest.com.

Moon dance

Margate Under the Moon returns 5-10 p.m. Saturday, gathering 15 food trucks, craft beer and cocktails, local vendors, and art and crafts bazaar, kid’s activities and live music at Margate Boulevard and 441. Admission and parking are free, as is beer for the first 100 people at the CRA tent. Music will be by the Grateful Dead tribute band Crazy Fingers and reggae modernizers Artikal Sound System. Info: MargateFL.com.

Happy hour of the week

Apothecary 330, the buzzy cocktail bar inside PizzaCraft in downtown Fort Lauderdale’s Himmarshee District on Wednesday will throw a happy-hour fundraiser for the FLITE Center (Fort Lauderdale Independence, Training and Education), which provides support for youth aging out of foster care. Running from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., the evening includes live music, cocktails, light bites and raffles. Tickets, which include one free drink, are $15 in advance at FLITECenter.org, or $20 cash at the door.
