

ARTS & CULTURE

FEBRUARY 11, 2016 7:00 AM

Take Five: A chance to take a selfie with the Stanley Cup

This year is the 10th anniversary of the Carolina Hurricanes winning the Stanley Cup. Celebrate by taking a selfie with The Cup during its brief stop at Crabtree Saturday. 2006 News & Observer File Photo - Chris Seward - cseward@newsobserver.com

Triangle events to add to your daybook:

Hayti Film Fest

Through Saturday; Hayti Heritage Center, 804 Old Fayetteville St., Durham; free; 919-683-1709 or hayti.org

The annual Hayti Heritage Film Festival showcases diverse works by and about people of African descent - both short and feature-length films and classics. Tickets are free but call to reserve. See website for schedule.

Raise the Cup

Noon-1:30 p.m. Saturday; Crabtree Valley Mall (lower level near Sears), 4325 Glenwood Ave., Raleigh; free; crabtree-valley-mall.com

This year is the 10th anniversary of the Carolina Hurricanes' winning the Stanley Cup. Celebrate by taking a selfie with The Cup during its brief stop at Crabtree.

'Blue Blood' rivals

7:30 and 9:45 p.m. Monday-Tuesday, 7 p.m. Wednesday; Silverspot Cinema, 201 S. Estes Drive, Chapel Hill; $9-$14.50; silverspot.net

If you missed the documentary "Duke-Carolina: The Blue Blood Rivalry" when it came through in 2013, there's a string of screenings next week at the Silverspot, preceding The Big Game on Wednesday (you can watch the game there as well).

MORE ARTS & CULTURE 